DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 10-14, 16, 17, 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

The claims are not enabled for “preventing” the claimed conditions. Applicant does have support for “treating” but not “preventing”. The specification does not show that the obesity is totally eliminated and will not occur again.

Claims 10-14, 16, 17, 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for treating overweight or obesity, does not reasonably provide enablement for any and all conditions. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to practice the invention commensurate in scope with these claims.

Applicant has shown that the composition can be used to treat obesity and overweightness. Applicant has not shown that such compositions can be used to treat any and all conditions. In an art as unpredictable as biotechnology, it is imperative that the disclosure show that the composition can treat more than just obesity and overweightness. In other words the method reads on treating someone with AIDS and there is nothing in the specification to support such a claim.

Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for Gymnema, glucomannan and locust bean gum , does not reasonably provide enablement for any and all carbohydrate absorption inhibitors, carbohydrase inhibitors, etc. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to practice the invention commensurate in scope with these claims.

The specification only discloses what is above. It does not show that any and all of the claimed components will work in the claimed process. Since biotechnology is such an unpredictable art as is treating obesity and overweightness then it is highly unlikely that any and all components as claimed in claim 14 will indeed treat obesity or overweightness.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 10, 12, 16, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ying or Shimizu et al.

The references each teach that glucose isomerase can be administered orally to a patient.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 10-14, 16, 17, 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shimizu et al. taken with Tsujino, and Carey et al. '358 and Carey et al. '508.

Shimizu teaches that glucose isomerase can be administered orally to a patient suffering from diabetes.

Since many people who suffer from diabetes are also over weight , then when one administers the composition to a group of patients, it is inevitable that one will be overweight. Further, Tsujino and the Carey references show that it is well known administer such formulations enterally.
